

ABSTRACT

An improved plastic price channel strip of the kind used on merchandise fixtures for example in retail outlets. These are commonly designed to receive labels providing price and other information relating to merchandise being displayed on the fixtures. By blending the corner extremities of the strip, snagging is reduced and the strip longevity and durability are significantly enhanced.